OUR LOCAL INDUSTRIES.

The F. L. Moore Agricultural Implements of the Campany.

The vast improvement which has taken place in the manufacture of agricultural implements and tools has created a demand unprecedented since farm machinery was first introduced, and closely allied to which is the increasing demand for fertilizers. Farmers and growers of special crops have come to realize the absolute necessity of making liberal use of the best manures if they desire to derive the increased returns from their lands. In the District of Columbia the leading representative house in these lines is that of the F. L. Moore Agricultural Implement Company. The premises occupied as warerooms consist of a substantial four-story brick structure, 21320 feet in dimensions, in which is displayed everything required in the way of farm implements and tools, field and garden seeds. The firm's mill, located user the Aqueduct Bridge, on the C. and O. Canal, from which it derives its power, is a substantial four-story stone structure 47285 feet in dimensions and is employed to grind atone and lump plaster and tones, capacity 2500 tons annually. In addition to the above buildings the firm have three warehouses and a wharf, that located at the southwest corner of Thirty-first street and C. and O. Canal is Sox150 feet in size, and is used for storing agricultural implements, and that located on Water street, near High, with wharf on Potomac River, is two atories and cellar, measures 34:00 feet, and is used for miscellaneous purposes. This business was originally established by F. L. Moore and conducted by him until this day (July 1, 1857.), when the firm became the F. L. Few successful business men of the present day have had a more varied experience than the subject of this article. Mr. Hodge was born in Maryland in 1841, commenced the wood business in Baltimore in early life and was so engaged at the commencement of the late war, at which time he entered the Fifth Maryland Infantry, Union Army, as a private and was promoted from rank to rank to a first lieutenant, erving two years before his capture at Winchester, Virginia, June 15, '63, at which time he was under General Miliroy. He was sent from there to Libby prison, thence to Wilson Stockade, Macon, Georgis; after being in prison there, was taken to Charleston, S. C., in the summer of '64 and placed under fire by the Confederate Government. The reason for this, as we all know, was to prevent the Federal troops from fring back on the city. He then was sent into prison camp, near Sainda River, S. C., thence to a stockade prison in Columbia, S. C., and remained there until February, '65. Exchanged March 1, '65, was sent to Camp Parole, Annapolia, Mid., and honorably discharged April '30, '65. Was in prison altogether twenty-one months. Mr. H. came to Washington. D. C., in 1870, and screepted a Government position as clerk for three years, after which he was in the employ of Mr. Samuel Emery, wood and coal dealer, until 1883, at which time be established himself in business. Mr. Hodge labored under the disadvantages of a small capital at first, but by unifring efforts and the practice of those manly virtues that ever characterize the true mas and solder, he has taken a position among the leading business men of the city, of which he may well be proud. He has the most extensive coal and wood yards and sheds in the city, and largest supply of coal under cover in the Diatrict of Columbia, thereby giving his patrone dry coal in wet and freezing weather; has a large number of carts and wagons continually hauling fuel that is transported to him by I welfth street, between it and Few successful business men of the present that a more varied experience than

Lee was born at No. 516 Maryland avenue southwest, the latter number designating his birthplace being the original number of the city; was born in 1847; learned the business under the supervision of his father. Joseph C. and John W. Lee succeeded their father in business, under the style and firm of Henry Lee's Sons. At the expiration of nine years the subject of this article withdrew from the old firm and established himself on the opposite side of the street, shortly after which he removed to his present location. This family of Lees are among the oldest undertakers in Washington, the business having been handed down from generation to generation. William I. Schneider, proprietor, is a well-known wholesale catablishment, situated known wholesale establishment, situated at 230 East Capitol street, where it was originally started by Charles M, Lumb in 1861, and under whose name the goods become so popular throughout the District. The paremises occupied consist of the bakehouse, the store-house and stable, covering a ground space of 61x127 feet. The bakehouse, on the ground floor, is equipped with all the moders appliances adapted to the business, and contains a duplicate oven to be used in case of emergency. In the store-house, adjoining, is kept a large stock of materials used in pie manufacture, such as sugar, flour, fruits, etc., which are carefully selected by Mr. Schneider, who buys them in large quantities from relial le dealers. The upper pertion of the a cre-house is used as a repair shop for trays, etc., for handling pies in large quantities. The stable contains seven horses, and has capacity for eight. Five wegons are used at present to deliver the ge-oist to dealers in different parts of the city. The capacity of the bakery is 0,000 pies daily, and as the buintess is steadily on the locreace, it is expected this will soon be insufficient to supply the demand. About twelve men or required in the different departments of this establishment, and many of those comployed at precent were with the house when it first started. The place is well arranged, and an sir of order and cleanlices pervedes it. The reputation of the goods is constantly kept at the highest standard, which is greatly due to the careful and conceintions management of Mr. Schneider, who, as a baker of long experience, is admirably safied for the position which he occupies at the head of this establishment. at 220 East Capitol street, where it was

A postal card mailed to either of his yards will receive prompt response.

IN REAL ESTATE CIRCLES.

Some idea of the extent of the boom is Some idea of the extent of the boom in the real state business can be had from a glance at the records of the Assessor's of-fice. These records show that for the six months from January 1 to July 1 there were 3,700 pieces of real estate changed hands in the District. This is just 40 per cent, in-crease over the corresponding period of last year.
